PRISONER CLOTHED SELF IN HUNTER'S APPAREL

Escaped Wednesday, Caught Thursday, Sentenced Friday.

STAYED IN MOUNTAINS

Clad in clothing alleged to have been stolen from hunters' camps in the mountains near Pine Grove Mills and in Huntingdon County, Joe DeVoir found the freedom he had gained from prison at Rockview was of short duration and very costly. He was sentenced on Friday when Judge Quigley presided at a special session of court. He was taken to the Western penitentiary in Pittsburgh on Wednesday morning by Sheriff Dukeman. He is about 23 years old and will be 29 when he is released if he is obliged to serve the maximum sentence, as may be the case.

DeVoir was sentenced in McKean County to serve from 2 to 4 years in the Western penitentiary. He walked away from a team he had been entrusted with as driver at Rockview on Wednesday morning of last week and word was scattered about the county when his departure was discovered several hours later. He was caught on Friday afternoon by a constable from McAlevys Fort, 5 miles out from Pine Grove Mills.

E. E. Davis, assistant to Deputy Warden Fred B. Healy, of Rockview, accompanied by two guards, Messrs. Houser and Miller, went to McAlevy's Fort and brought the prisoner to the county jail in Bellefonte on last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Davis said, "DeVoir had been in the mountains. He broke into several hunting camps and helped himself. He was well clothed in hunter's clothes when caught, had on a sweater and warm outfit. The only thing he still wore that he had on while at Rockview was his underwear. He had left the other clothing worn when he escaped at the camps as he exchanged for hunters' clothing. Tracks in the snow in the mountains led to the discovery that someone was breaking into the hunting camps and the justice at McAlevys Fort issued a warrant and gave it to the constable there to serve. He found DeVoir in the mountains, where he was surrounded and taken into custody."

Sheriff Dukeman said, "Joe was lost. He told me he did't know where he was and he always came back where he started from. He stayed in the mountains practically all the time he was out."

When taken into court, the prisoner, who is of French nativity, was clad portly in the hunting clothes he had taken and wore a tan coat said to belong to Ray Patterson, in jail on serious charges. He was rather good looking and seemed out of place. After District Attorney Furst reported to Judge Quigley that the prisoner had entered a plea of guilty on the usual three charges for escaping from the Western penitentiary, the judge said, "Stand up, Joe."

"What made you leave out there?" was the first query of the Judge.

"I got tired of it," responded the prisoner, evidently somewhat at a loss for an excuse.

The Judge smiled. There was gentleness in the smile, but the lips were firm though reluctant, and the prisoner returned the smile, though it was rather pathetic, penitent. He told of his home being New York city, of serving in the army during the recent war, of having no money and going to McKean County.

"How did you get to McKean County?" queried Judge Quigley.

"Rode on the cushions," was the reply.

"What did you say?"

"Rode on the cushions," came more emphatic.

"How long have you been in prison?"

The prisoner fumbled about somewhat for a reply, but finally brought out that his time would have been up in nine months.

"You couldn't escape, before, could you?"

"No, sir, I was in the stockade until 8 days ago when I was given the team to drive."

"Then you had nobody over you. You were trusted and your time would soon have been up, but you just walked away the first chance you got. Didn't you know you couldn't get away without getting caught again?"

"No, I thought I could get away."

"With snow on the ground and winter on. Why you were liable to freeze. You had to be afraid to go into anyone's home. You might have had your freedom longer had it been in the summer and you could have found berries and something to eat, but to undertake it in the winter—don't you know you can't get away?"

The prisoner was undoubtedly impressed that he was wrong and could not answer the queries.

"The sentence of the court is that you pay a fine of $1 and costs and undergo a sentence of 2 to 4 years to be served in the Western penitentiary at the expiration of the sentence you were serving. Instead of 9 months, you now face a term of 5 or 6 years. You just can't behave. You're a bad one, aren't you?"

"Nothing bad in me, Judge," was the broken reply.

"Simply can't help doing wrong, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you think you will go straight when you get out?"

"Yes, sir."

"That's all."

"Anything else," asked Judge Quigley and then after a brief pause, "Court is adjourned," In ten minutes it was all over except that the prisoner had a sentence of 5 to 6 years to serve instead of 9 months for just about one day's freedom.

DOGS CHASING DEER

Two Killed in Nittany Valley and Dogs Shot.

Dogs chasing deer in Nittany valley has resulted in the death of two deer recently. A fawn was killed last Thursday morning on the public road back of Nittany and the preceding Saturday Thomas Mosier, game protector, shot a doe which had broken its leg and was discovered in the garden at William Beck's tenant property at Snydertown.

Three of Willard Strunk's dogs were alleged to have been out on Sunday, the one failing to return home and the other two coming in seriously wounded by being shot. It is said that other dogs have been running free in the mountains and there is no come-back if the dogs get killed or shot while chasing game.

Lehigh Engine Broke.

A broken spring on the trailer under the firepit on the locomotive attached to the Lehigh flyer, fast train between Pittsburgh and Easton which reaches Bellefonte at 1:26 P. M., caused a brief delay at the local station on last Friday afternoon. The spring was removed and the locomotive taken on from here to be replaced by another locomotive at a station farther east and to be put in shop for repairs. The train was passed by the inspector in Altoona, so that the spring was quite likely broken between Altoona and Bellefonte, being discovered here by Inspector Fulton. As the spring supported the weight of the boiler of the locomotive and its removal caused all this to be directly on the trailer, it was necessary for the engineer to back from here into Milesburg and to continue his journey through Bald Eagle valley with great care, but he got by with it and successfully made his trip.

Car Over Embankment.

A Dodge Brothers touring car occupied by Joe Campbell and Nelson Shope, both of State College, and driven by Mr. Campbell, was considerably damaged last Thursday afternoon when it plunged over the embankment to the south of the new stretch of state road recently completed east of State College. The car turned over and the top and windshield were smashed. The two men received only minor injuries.

BOY ON SLED INJURED WHEN RUN OVER BY AUTO

George Gross, Son of Edward Gross, Is Victim.

IS INJURED INTERNALLY

George Gross, 12 years old and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gross, of Bellefonte, was seriously injured on Saturday afternoon while coasting. He was injured internally, among other injuries having sustained a punctured kidney, when a Ford car in which Warren Minnemyer was returning to his home west of town, struck the sled and run over the boy.

The lad had been sliding down the hill by the Bellefonte hospital property, known as Holmes street. As his sled shout out into the intersecting street, Willowbank, the car driven by Mr. Minnemyer came along.

The boy was at first taken to the home of his parents, on Valentine street, nearby, and a physician was summoned. He found no broken bones but noted that the lad was injured internally and had him removed to the hospital. While the injuries are serious, it is not thought that they will prove fatal.

OH, YOU KIDDIES!

Big Day on June 14th Planned by Elks.

At the meeting of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of Bellefonte on Monday evening an early start was made in getting ready for Kiddies Day. Every boy and girl who was fortunate enough to be at Hecla Park last summer for this first big day put on by the Elks, as well as the large number of older folks who joined them, will note with pleasure that the Elks are planning to have Kiddies Day this year held at Hecla Park in connection with the annual observance of flag day and both will come on June 14th, a Thursday, when the business men and employes will likely be enjoying one of the Thursday half-holidays of the summer season and given an opportunity to join in the big time.

Flag Day is set aside by the government to instill in all a keener inspiration for patriotism. The local Elks believe that observance of Flag Day and Kiddies Day will give them greater opportunity to teach the boys and girls patriotism and a reverence for the flag. Some preliminary hints at entertainment for the day incicate that the Elks are considering putting on a celebration that will eclipse the very successful one of last summer.

Firemen's Assn. Banquet.

The Firemen's Relief association of Bellefonte held their annual meeting in the Undine Fire company's house on Bishop street on Tuesday evening. Officers were elected as follows: B. E. The banquet was a very enjoyable feature with chicken as the piece de resistance and many side dishes, making the inner man happy and ready for a good time when P. H. Gherrity, toastmaster, took charge. Speakers included Father Downes, Prothonotary Roy Wilkinson, John Love, Esq., Bent Tate and John J. Bower, Esq. Music was furnished by Deitrich's orchestra.

PINCHOT APPOINTMENTS

New Governor Names Geo. W. Woodruff as Next Atty. General

Governor-elect Pinchot this week announced several cabinet appointments, intimating that other selections will be made known before he is formally inaugurated at Harrisburg next Tuesday.

George W. Woodruff, of Philadelphia, a former Judge and prominent in legal, conservation and athletic circles, has been appointed Attorney General. Major Lynn G. Adams has been re-appointed superintendent of State Police, and Peter G. Cameron has been continued as Banking Commissioner. A Nevin Detrich has been chosen Supt. of Public Printing.

Dr. Ellen Potter, of Philadelphia, has been named for the $10,000 position as head of the Department of Public Welfare, succeeding Dr. Baldy. This department has general supervision of hospitals and penal institutions in the State. It will be recalled that during his campaign Mr. Pinchot promised to appoint a woman to a place in his cabinet.

Burned by Gasoline.

Frederick E. Myers, a young man of Lock Haven, was enveloped in flames when a can containing gasoline exploded. Myers set the can too close to the range in the kitchen and was cleaning some auto parts. He was painfully burned, but is expected to recover. Myers extinguished the flames which were burning his clothing and several articles in the kitchen. Then he was taken to the hospital. His hands were so severely burned that the bones of one finger were exposed, the nails of two fingers were ready to fall away, his face was blistered, both elbows sorely burned, his left knee and right leg from the knee down blistered. In his desperate fight against the flames the young man had extinguished all fire in the room except a couch which was carried outside by the firemen, who had been summoned, and the flames extinguished by placing it in the snow.

Roland Morris Speaks.

Roland S. Morris, of Philadelphia, former Minister to Japan, and related to the old Burnside family of Centre County, was the principal speaker at a Democratic "Jackson Day" dinner at the Bush House, in Bellefonte, on Monday evening. Mr. Morris is a pleasing speaker and his description of scenes and incidents in Japan proved most interesting to his hearers. Col. J. L. Spangler was toastmaster. Charles J. Reilley, of Williamsport, and State Senator Betts, of Clearfield, also responded to toasts. Before returning to Philadelphia Mr. Morris visited State College where he talked informally to the students. In the evening he was guest of Editor Charles R. Kurtz, at dinner.

Place to Coast.

East Howard street has been set aside as a place for coasting under police protection, The Republican was informed yesterday. Anyone coasting on any other street does so at their own risk.

Good Sleighing.

The snow on Sunday night and Monday packed well and made splendid sleighing. Quite a number made good use of it.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

Miss Alice Tate, District Registrar, Gives Figures.

Miss Alice Tate, registrar of births and deaths for this district, which includes Bellefonte borough, Walker Benner, Marion and Spring Twps., gave some figures showing births and deaths for the year 1922 and several preceding years. The figures show that there are more births each year than deaths, the population steadily gaining.

The total births for 1922 was 317. The number of deaths was 168. The proceeding years show that the birth rate is larger this year.

In 1921 there were 314 births for the entire year; in 1918, 247; 1914, 272; 1913, 274. The deaths in 1921 were 189; 1918, 210; 1914, 163; 1913, 136. These figures show that the death rate was much larger in 1918 than usual (due to an epidemic of influenza that fall). It will be noticed the births for 1918, the same year, were lower than usual. 1913 was the year preceding the war and 1914 the year in which the war started. Figures for these two years do not show much difference from normal.

Miss Tate said, "I have been registrar since 1909, succeeding my uncle, Andrew Bell, who was appointed in 1905 when the law first went into effect. They had much trouble at first to get the physicians to co-operate in making the work a success and it took a lot of effort to get it on the present basis. There is still lack of interest on the part of some doctors and it is hard work to have the records promptly reported in some instances but there is much improvement to what it was seventeen years ago."

Births in the various places for 1922 were: Bellefonte, 144; Benner Twp., 24; Spring Twp., 109; Walker Twp., 19; Marion Twp., 10 Deaths for 1922 were: Bellefonte, 72; Benner Twp., 34; Spring Twp., 40; Walker Twp., 15; Marion Twp., 7.

Candidate for Dist. Atty.

Friends of John G. Love, of Bellefonte, expect that he will soon announce that he is a candidate for Republican nomination for District Attorney. All indications are that he will have no opposition for the nomination. District Attorney Furst has informed friends that he will not seek re-election. It is barely possible that no one will be nominated on the Democratic ticket for this office.

Recorder Wm. H. Brown this week formally announced his candidacy for Republican nomination for Sheriff. In so doing he declared his intention to go after the nomination to win and wage a vigorous nine months contest for the honor.

W. B. GRAY HUNTER TO SERVE 1 YEAR IN JAIL

Surrendered for Shooting Centre County Hunter.

MAY BE HARDON FAMILY

Walter B. Gray, of Altoona, surrendered himself to the court in Centre County on Wednesday at a special session and was sentenced to serve one year in jail and pay a fine of $200.

The sentencing of Gray was pathetic. The circumstances in his case indicated that he had accidentally shot Willis Woodring, a young man of Port Matilda, while both men were hunting (unknown to each other) in a section of Halfmoon Township on Nov. 3, 1921. Gray said he saw a movement which he thought to be a wild turkey and discharged both barrels of his gun, the shot severely wounding Woodring, who has never fully recovered.

Information was made against Gray before Justice Kline Woodring, of Bellefonte, by Thomas Mosier, and he was held for court to be subsequently convicted by a jury. He appealed. In the meantime, a similar case was tried in the Lycoming County court and Judge Whitehead finally sentenced the defendant in this case to pay the fine of $200 and serve two years in jail, the maximum sentence. An attempt was made to have Gray appear at December court in Centre County, but his home was quarantined for chicken pox, it was alleged, and he was therefore unable to be present.

In sentencing him, the gray-haired and affable Mr. Gray, listened intently as the law was read, giving the Judge no alternative.

"I'm mighty sorry in your case, Mr. Gray, but the law says the prisoner shall pay a fine of $200 and shall serve not less than one year in jail nor more than two years, so I must sentence you to pay a fine of $200 and serve one year in jail. Are you in a position to pay the fine and costs?" said Judge Quigley.

"I have only what I earn as a commercial traveling man," said Mr. Gray, "and I have a large family to support." It is understood he has six children. Under the law he will not be able to get a hunters license for the next five years.

Three desertion and non-support cases were disposed of as follows:

H. C. (Rash) Williams, of Bellefonte, to pay his wife $20 per month.

W. R. Quick, of Snow Shoe, employed as a carpenter in Philipsburg, to pay $50 per month for the support of his children.

Edward Sweitzer, of Bellefonte, to pay $10 per month for the support of his wife.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK GOOD.

Directors and Officers of First National Bank Selected.

At the annual meeting of the stock holders of the First National Bank of Bellefonte held on Tuesday the board of directors was re-elected as follows: Chas. M. McCurdy, W. Fred Reynolds, Geo. M. Gamble, C. C. Shuey, Henry S. Linn, Edward H. Richard, James C. Furst, Thomas B. Beaver. Officers were elected as follows: Chas. M. McCurdy, president; W. Fred Reynolds, vice president; James K. Barnhart, cashier; C. E. Robb, assistant cashier.

The selection of Mr. Robb as assistant cashier is a merited reward of years of faithful service to the bank, in the employ of which he started on October 1, 1906. He has been general bookkeeper and will continue to look after this work.

Chas. M. McCurdy, asked for a statement as to business, said, "This has been a very prosperous year in banking, more so than usual, and the outlook for 1923 is very promising. The only thing in the way of real prosperity here is the European situation. The inability of foreign nations to buy our farm products and other raw material is the only serious obstacle to boom times in the United States. Locally, we share in the general improvement. Local industries are operating full time. We received a perpetual charter to operate as a national bank, granted by act of Congress on July 1, 1922. Heretofore all national banks were obliged to have their charters renewed every twenty years.

DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Faneuil Hall to Be Repaired

INDEPENDENCE HALL RIVAL

History of the Famous Building That So Often Rang With Early American Oratory—Restoration Work Only to Be Done.

Faneuil Hall is to be painted and repaired to prolong its life. Unpatriotic vandals, from time to time, have attempted to convert various American shrines to commercial purposes. What do you suppose would happen if someone proposed to sell the "Cradle of American Liberty?"

Boston.—Boston, the city of landmarks, has a hard struggle to preserve them. Every once in a while some adventurous individual proposes to divide Bunker Hill into building lots, to roof over Bulfinch street for a garage, to make a recreation pier of the fish dock, or to melt down the statue of Paul Revere for nickels for use in the subway. Such proposals of unpatriotic vandalism are vigorously resisted by the surviving old Bostonians and are ultimately defeated, but not until there has been a controversy with the vandals on one side and the Boston ancients on the other. The latest proposition—it is going through all right, all right—is to paint and reroof historic Faneuil Hall, described by Wendell Phillips as "the cradle of liberty" and by Ralph Waldo Emerson as "the forum of freedom."

Peter Faneuil was of French descent. He was a merchant in Boston, and he believed with Thomas Jefferson that where there is no free speech there is no freedom, where the voice of the patriot is muffled the hand of the elector is shackled, and there is no liberty in the land.

Entertaining these views, which were those of men considered revolutionists in his day—for the American colonies were then under the control of England—Peter Faneuil cherished the idea of presenting to Boston an appropriate meeting place where the views of patriotic colonists could be fearlessly expressed. With the high sense of civic duty which has always marked New England and is, in fact, one of its chief titles to the reverent tribute of all patriotic Americans, he attended a public meeting and offered to build at his own expense a market and to present it to Boston. There were reactionaries and progressives in that day as well as this, and the Boston reactionaries protested against what they called the "public monopoly" of a market which would "drive out of business" a number of small dealers or hucksters who were "dead agin" the innovation, to use an old New England phrase still current.

A vote of thanks was given Peter Faneuil but his proposition to contribute a market, at his own expense, to Boston was adopted by a majority of only seven votes. Whether encouraged by the vote of thanks, or admonished by the slender majority of seven, Peter Faneuil enlarged his plan of a market and coupled with it the idea of a meeting place, so the two were built together.

Such was the origin of Faneuil Hall, years before the opening of the Revolutionary war and more than a century before the anti-slavery meetings which made the old building a very pillar of forensic fire for those who wished to see blotted out forever what John Wesley called "that execrable sum of all villainies commonly called the slave trade."

"The Hall."

Faneuil Hall, which is in Faneuil Hall square and which old Bostonians still describe as "the cradle of liberty," is by all odds the most important and historic public meeting place in the United States. The first Faneuil Hall was built in 1742 and was primarily a market. The plan of a "second story" (there were no second-story men in those days) was an afterthought. When Boston accepted the building, it was provided that it should be called Faneuil Hall "forever." The first Faneuil Hall was a structure only 100 feet long by 40 feet wide. It was partially destroyed by fire in 1761, only the walls remaining, but was rebuilt in 1762, fifteen years before the beginning of the Revolutionary war. Part of the funds used in rebuilding were raised by a lottery.

The second building was formally opened March 14, 1763, and it was the patriot, James Otis, who dedicated the hall to "the cause of liberty" in a fervent speech. In Faneuil Hall were held all the town meetings and, in the stirring days before the American Revolution, the patriot orators of that time were heard in "old Faneuil"—though it was not very old then. The building which was only about half the size of the present one, was two stories high and so remained until 1805. Then, under the direction of the architect Bulfinch, it was enlarged and improved. Its width was increased to 80 feet; a third story was added; the "hall" was made 78 feet square and 28 feet high; galleries resting on Doric columns were put in and a large platform was built for the orators, for distinguished citizens and for members of committees.

On the rear wall hangs an oil painting representing Daniel Webster addressing the United States senate on the occasion of his celebrated reply to Hayne. It is by Healy and is interesting because of the portraits in the picture of some of the leading New England men of that period. Other portraits hanging on the walls were those of Washington (by Stuart), Faneuil (by Colonel Henry Sargent), Hancock (by Copley), Samuel Adams, John and John Quincy Adams and Warren (all by Copley), Commodore Preble, John A. Andrew, Abraham Lincoln and Edward Everett by modern artists, all copies, the originals having been removed to the Boston Fine Arts building.

In other, earlier and perhaps better days the orator with his harangues, arguments and appeals held the center of the stage—when that stage was Faneuil Hall. He was to the public sentiment of his day what the newspapers, the magazines and the best sellers (the newspapers especially) are in this day. Some of the greatest orators and agitators of the country were heard in Faneuil Hall.

The hall was never let for money, but was and is at the disposal of the people whenever a sufficient number of persons, complying with certain regulations, ask to have it opened for meeting purposes. The Boston charter contains, or did contain, a provision forbidding its sale or lease. On the upper floor of the building was for years the armory of the "Ancient and Honorable Artillery company," the oldest military organization in the country and one of the local institutions of Boston. Until Boston became a city, in 1822, the town offices were in Faneuil Hall and it was the place of the regular town meetings.

Practically every distinguished American, and certainly every important orator who had a message to convey to the people of this country, has either attended a meeting in Faneuil Hall or has spoken from its platform. A few years ago Theodore Roosevelt, seeking at that time delegates in his support for the Presidential nomination, spoke in Faneuil Hall in advance of the Republican convention in Chicago. The auditorium was densely crowded, so much so, in fact, that a large number of those standing in the rear of the hall could not see Colonel Roosevelt, though they were able to hear him.

"We can't see you, Colonel," a few of them called out. At the front and on top of the table on the platform where Colonel Roosevelt was speaking was an American flag draped, and one enthusiastic partisan exclaimed, "Stand on the table!" Quick as a flash Colonel Roosevelt exclaimed, "Remove the flag and I will do so. I cannot stand with my feet on the American flag."

The first floor of Faneuil Hall as now used, and as always used, is a market, the assembly hall or meeting place occupying the second floor. This is an old English arrangement which was borrowed for Boston when Faneuil Hall was first built. Since then, the old building has never been seriously changed architecturally.

The new work to be undertaken is the complete fireproofing of the building. This includes a new floor of reinforced concrete under the market in the lower story, an extension of the sprinkler system, the providing of a "water curtain" for the exterior, and the introduction of a fireproof stairway as an exit from the quarters of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company. The roof, which has not been repaired for 23 years, is to be put into good condition and the present unsightly and ramshackle awnings over the sidewalks are to be removed and a new awning of iron and glass (in simple Colonial design) substituted.

Work of Restoration.

All the paint will be cleaned off the brick, mutilated stonework restored, the white trim repaired and the building left in its natural red brick (with white trimmings) substantially as it appeared when it was first constructed. The Boston firm of architects in charge of the alterations, which are more in the nature of a restoration than of innovations, is Cram & Ferguson, and the expense will not be large—wasteful municipal expenditures have not been the rule in New England—even for the most valuable landmarks in Massachusetts, the one rival to Independence hall in Philadelphia.

Mr. Cram, one of the architects supervising the repairs, said recently that if any one in Boston proposed the sale of Faneuil Hall, the people of Boston would build barricades in the streets and fight to the last gasp to prevent such an outrage.

Every one knows the story of Daniel Webster and the Boston "silver top." There existed for many years a branch or division of the Whig party, the members of which were called "the Conscience Whigs." They regarded the slavery question as still an open one for popular discussion and for remedial legislation. The other Whigs, known as "the Cotton Whigs," did not. In New York, the older members of the Whig party were known as the "Silver Greys"; less reverent persons called them "the Snufftakers." In Massachusetts they were known as "the Silver Tops" on account of the white hair of many of the older members. It was an era of whiskers and beards; there were no, or very few, bald heads.

Daniel Webster was a Whig, but desiring to propitiate and gain the support of the Cotton Whigs of the South in his aspirations for the Presidency, he made a speech in the United States senate in Washington which gravely affronted the Conscience Whigs and prompted John G. Whittier to write that fierce denunciation of him in poetry, "Ichabod." By the Boston Silver Tops Daniel Webster was regarded as a backslider, a traitor, a recreant and as having "gone over to the South." On the day of his funeral one Silver Ttop met another on Boylston street and asked him whether he was going to attend Mr. Webster's funeral. "No, sir," said the other Boston Silver Top tersely; "I will not attend it, but I approve of it."

While New York was languishing under the tyranny of an alien government, 3,000 miles away, and its more prosperous inhabitants were indulging in social convivialities, the voice of Boston was being raised in protest against the injustice of English rule, and the nearest echo, a faint one, was to be heard in Philadelphia. Boston was at that time at the head of the patriotic procession in the North, and Faneuil Hall was the platform upon which the revolutionary patriots invoked the support of the friends of freedom throughout the world to resist the accumulated tyrannies recited in the Declaration of Independence.—Earnest Harvier in the New York Times.

HUNTER BRAVES BEAR IN HIS DEN

Wounded Animal, Maddened With Pain, Charges Man Who Has Close Call for His Life.

Malone, N. Y.—If you had tracked a big bear to his den among mountain rocks and Bruin laughed at you and refused to come out and be killed, what would you do? Leave him to himself and look for him another day? Or would you crawl in after him as Old Put crawled in on one memorable occasion and bearded a wolf in his lair? That is just what A. M. Johnson, a Chateaugay hunter, did the other day, and he got his bear.

Johnson, with Ed Cooke, Jerry Mahoney and other Chateaguay men, was stalking deer in the woods near Chateaugay lake. Coming upon tracks of a bear they abandoned their deer hunt to follow him. After a long trail they arrived at a naturally formed den in a rocky ledge. As the bear's tracks had ended there, they knew that the beast had taken refuge in the cave. How to get at the animal was the question. He showed no willingness to come out and let the hunters shoot him, nor did he promise to be a cordial host.

But Johnson was unwilling to leave without at least a sight of his game. So, holding his rifle in position for instant use, the hunter entered the den. He had not penetrated far before he caught sight of the animal. Recognition probably was mutual in the dim light of the cave, and Johnson took no chances of a warm welcome from the den's owner. He fired two shots in quick succession. One of them broke the bear's jaw.

Maddened with pain and rage the beast made a rush for the hunter, who backed out of the den as quickly as possible with the bear close upon him. As the animal appeared in the open the other hunters fired upon it, and a fusillade of bullets soon put in out of power to fight. The animal weighed 300 pounds.

TO HELP COMBAT ILLITERACY

American Legion Auxiliary Called Upon by National Chairman to Aid in Educational Work.

Under the leadership of Mrs. J. E. Baird of Lincoln, Neb., thousands of members of the American Legion Auxiliary assisted the Legion in its American Education week program, December 3 to 9, inclusive. Mrs. Baird is chairman of the auxiliary's national Americanism commission.

Mrs. J. E. Baird.

Appealing to the auxiliary's 200,000 members, Mrs. Baird made the following statement:

"We, who gave our sons, brothers and husbands to battle for the enlightenment of the world, are deeply interested in the Legion's efforts to combat illiteracy and ignorance which have been revealed as one of our principal sources of national danger.

"The war draft tests, showing that our men from twenty-one to thirty years of age were six per cent illiterate and the subsequent discovery that the United States stands eleventh among the great nations in point of literacy have alarmed the good women of this country and they are eager to remedy this deplorable state of affairs."

Mrs. Baird also pointed out that 22.4 per cent of those examined for the draft were found to be physically unfit and urged that the relatives of veterans assist the Legion in its program to install playgrounds and to establish facilities for physical exercise among school children.

Among the principal activities of the auxiliary women during American Education week was a campaign urging the importance of regular visits to the schools.

LEGION MAN TRAINS PIGEONS

Stuart Cohen of St. Paul, Minn., an Expert in Teaching the Feathered Messengers.

Training homing pigeons is the hobby of Stuart W. Cohen, a member of the American Legion in St. Paul, Minn.

Stuart W. Cohen.

A pigeon lover since childhood, Cohen has been training the birds since 1910. His pupils have flown successfully at all distances up to 1,400 miles. A number of pigeons trained by Cohen are now assisting forest fire prevention work at a post established at Tower, Minn.

Cohen sent a carrier pigeon to Virginia, Minn., recently, where a message was attached to it to return to St. Paul. Worn out, its tail drooping and its big feathers singed, the pigeon came back to St. Paul. The message was gone. In place of the little packet was a severe scratch and wound. The feathers were singed and ruffled, indicating it had encountered forest fires in the northern part of the state. Cohen estimated that the pigeon must have gone two or three hundred miles out of its course when the smoke of the forest fires confused its sense of direction.

Cohen spent most of his army service at Camp Forest, Ga.

MACNIDER AS BUCK PRIVATE

Former National Commander Promises to Tell Buddies How It Feels to Be Back in Ranks.

Hanford MacNider, past national commander of the American Legion, has promised to write an article in the near future for his Iowa buddies telling how it feels to be a buck private in the Legion ranks again.

"Reports that MacNider might locate in the East after his term as national commander expired were absolutely without foundation," the Iowa Legionnaire states. "He has returned to his old job at Mason City, Iowa, and taken his place as a buck in the ranks of Clausen-Worden post. That he will show up at Legion meetings here and there over the state from time to time is certain. He will be the same old 'Jack' MacNider, for Iowa is his home and his heart is here with his gang.

"MacNider may think he will continue to be a buck, but the service he has given this country is far too distinguished and he has impressed too many people with his caliber to long remain as a buck or private citizen. There are too many big jobs he can do better than any other man for him to long remain down here with us ordinary mortals."

TO CARE FOR MENTAL CASES

Dr. Frank F. Hutchins, clinical director of the United States Veterans' bureau, in Washington, D. C., recently visited national headquarters of the American Legion upon request to explain the new step taken by the Veterans' bureau to provide better trained doctors and nurses in the care of neuro-psychiatric World war veterans.

Dr. Frank F. Hutchins.

The government is looking for 50 young doctors of medicine to compose an initial class for special training in the treatment of mental cases, Doctor Hutchins said.

"Neuro-psychiatry is perhaps the most difficult of all the veterans' ailments," he said. "Almost anyone knows that tuberculosis is caused by a definite germ. Almost everyone knows what kind of treatment and care should be given a tubercular patient. This mental disease, however, may be the combination of many other physical ailments. Hardly two of them are exactly alike. It is a difficult problem, and doctors handling these cases need special training. They must have all the patience in the world."

Doctor Hutchins said it is impossible to obtain the required number of specialists in nervous and mental diseases, and that it has become necessary for the government to instruct a staff of its own for this line of work.

"The policy of the bureau is to provide medical attention for the disabled veterans so that everything possible may be done to restore them to health and proper status in civilian life," he said.

A systematic and comprehensive course in neuro-psychiatry has been outlined. It consists of 176 lectures and demonstrations and some 440 hours of clinical and laboratory work.

Three courses are to be given. The first, which will last four months, is the academic. The next is a post graduate course of six weeks and the third consists of one or two conferences a year lasting three or four days, where ideas and experiences are exchanged.

The accepted candidates will receive $166 a month during the school work, and after graduation will be passed assistant surgeons in the reserve corps of the United States public health service, or eligible for employment as class "B" physicians under the United States civil service commission and assigned to duty with United States Veterans' bureau. These salaries range from $3,000 a year upward.

The first class started work January 4, and at the same time schools for graduate nurses, social service, occupational-therapeutist and physiotherapeutist work began.

BONDY GETS RED CROSS CALL

Robert E. Bondy, a member of Peers-Williams post of the American Legion at St Louis, has recently been appointed to the important office of director of war service of the American Red Cross.

Robert E. Bondy.

Mr. Bondy has had a wide range of experience with the Red Cross since April, 1919, when he came to the organization from the social service bureau of the chamber of commerce of Columbus, O., where he organized one of the first large war chests of the early war days, raising $3,250,000 in that city in one drive.

He served as secretary-treasurer of the public welfare section of the Ohio conference of public welfare in 1917 and during the war was an enlisted man.

Mr. Bondy is a native of Minnesota, and received his education at Chicago university. For a time he was a reporter on the Chicago Tribune. His many duties have thrown him in contact with the work for ex-service men. This, combined with his camp experience and his training as a social service executive, peculiarly fits him for his new duties.

Representing the Red Cross, Mr. Bondy spoke at the recent national gathering of Legion state adjutants held in Indianapolis.

Chance to Profit.

Rafferty of the Old Sod, and MacPherson, a Scot, were miners together. One day Rafferty accidentally emptied his pipe on a keg of powder and when he came down it was on the installment plan. Mac's grief was genuine, but finally he dried his tears and went off to notify Mrs. Rafferty.

"Is this the Widow Rafferty?" he asked when a woman appeared at the door.

"'Tis Mrs. Rafferty I am, but no Widow Rafferty," she snapped.

A businesslike gleam came into MacPherson's eye.

"An' how much will ye bet?" he demanded.—American Legion Weekly.

COATS FOR THE CHILDREN; TAILORED DRESSES POPULAR

While the fancy of the designer of children's clothes lightly turns to thoughts of spring and he busies himself only with things for the new season ahead, the weather man continues to hand out a brand of temperature that discourages a belief in spring. But designers have a good record behind them. Their coats for children and misses are above criticism this winter and now is a good time to invest in them for present and for future use, for the holidays are past and merchandise must be closed out.

Models for little girls are made of warm, durable and attractive materials, nearly all of them cut on straight lines to be worn with or without a belt. Fur, in collars or in bandings on collar and cuffs, is as universally used as on coats for grown-ups. For children they are of the inexpensive sorts and the plainer fabric furs or woven furs, are liked for them. As a decorative feature nothing is quite so well thought of as plaits, with box plaits in the lead on coats for juniors. A little simple embroidery, a few buttons and occasionally a sleeve, somewhat fancier than the plain coat sleeve, are allowed on models where the element of style is much considered and narrow patent leather belts add a snappy touch as shown in the coat pictured.

This pretty affair is fastened with two round buttons at the neck and is decorated with groups of small plaits. The sleeves are full and shaped into a narrowed cuff. A saucy felt hat with trimming of narrow ribbon and a chin strap tops off this smart coat.

Simple Style in Child's Coat.

For girls from eight or nine years to their mid-teens, plain straight coats, often decorated with box plaits, are popular. The body of the garment is often set on to a yoke. Fancy stitching in simple designs, usually provides the ornamentation that is sparingly used on them. They are nearly all provided with fur collars that may be brought up about the throat in cold weather and fastened with a button.

The time-honored two-piece tailored suit has strong rivals—or allies—in the wardrobe of the busy woman who spends much of her time in street clothes. The three-piece suit and the all-day dress (including the coat dress) prove a welcome change from the blouse and skirt combination, especially to business women. We appear to be gliding into a tailored mode for spring, and a tailored mode with a number of interesting innovations, as predicted by Paris.

Innovations are in evidence in the coat frock at the left of the two all-day dresses illustrated, appearing in the increased fullness of the skirt, the heightened waistline and fuller side panels. The skirt is short enough for convenience and the lengthened panels are made an outstanding style feature by their shape and trimming of silk braid. This is an adaptation of the straight-line dress that will prove becoming to slender figures. Designers appear to be so engrossed with making slenderizing clothes for stout women that her thin sisters are considerably neglected.

The straight-line frock at the right is flattering to full figures and is trimmed with narrow braid used lavishly and in a strong contrasting color. This color contrast is another innovation that is appearing in bands of printed silk or embroidery in Persian, Bulgarian and cashmere colorings on dark-colored dresses.

Serge, broadcloth and wool jersey are returning favorites that are featured in street dress. They will do their capable part toward promoting a vogue for tailored clothes.

The three-piece suit, that is a suit with blouse and skirt joined together and worn under a coat, cape or jacket, is the center of interest in tailored clothes for spring.

LOS ANGELES MAN SAYS IT NEVER FAILS

"Tanlac is my stand-by, and I wouldn't think of being without it. It has set me on my feet more than once when I had such bad spells of stomach trouble. I thought I couldn't get well." This emphatic statement was made recently by W. C. Wallace, 320 N. Normandy Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

"An acid stomach and indigestion caused me indescribable suffering for more than four years," he said. "Awful pains would strike me soon after eating, and I would be almost doubled up in agony. Often I had to take to my bed, and I would lose much weight with every spell. I was told I had ulcers, enlarged stomach and other ailments, but all my efforts to get relief failed. I kept getting worse, and figured I would have to get something to help me or I couldn't keep going much longer.

"I read in the papers where Tanlac was helping others with stomach troubles, so I began taking it. It never failed to straighten me out, and I gained back my lost weight, too. I am more grateful than I can say for the good this medicine has done me, and I do not hesitate to give it my fullest recommendation."

Odd African Tribe.

The El Molo ("Poor Devil") are a small and little-known tribe, dwelling on islands close to the east shore of Lake Rudolf, in East Africa. They are now a community of about 70 souls under the leadership of a blind chief.

They construct the poorest type of shelter from leaves of the Dom palm. Their sole food is fish, which they occasionally spear, but more often catch in coarse-meshed fiber nets; their only drink is the vile soda-impregnated water of the lake.

The El Moro are almost amphibious, and are apparently unable to go for more than an hour without water, for after that time their lips swell up and start bleeding. They have their own language.

BEST REMEDY ALWAYS CHEAPEST IN THE END

With the help of up-to-date and modern medicine it is easy to not only get rid of such troubles, but easy to build yourself up so well and strong you won't catch anymore all winter. It has been proven a million times. Read what Mrs. R. McMurray, of Pittsburgh, says:

"I had a cold on my lungs I couldn't stop. Burning pains in my chest made it seem like somebody was drawing a file across my lungs when I breathed. I was always sniffling and my eyes were red and sore. Headaches from morning until night nearly drove me wild. Nothing could stop it, until I heard about Hypo-Cod. I bought a bottle at the drug store. It is positively grand. Hypo-Cod cured my cold in a week. Headaches went away—my appetite returned. I gained seven pounds. I took four whole bottles just to be sure I was strong and completely over my troubles. Now I feel like a new woman and defy such winter ills," continued Mrs. McMurray, 9617 Deary St., Pittsburgh.

Hypo-Cod is so much stronger, quicker-acting and modern. It is so pure, wholesome and safe. It contains Hypophosphites of Lime, Potassium, Manganese, Strychnine, Quinine and Sodium, combined with medicinal extractives of Cod Liver Oil, Malt, Wild Cherry and Iron. (See formula and directions for home use on each bottle.) It has a delightfully pleasant taste—even children love to take it. Clear your chest, lungs and throat. Enrich your blood, speed up appetite and digestion. Enjoy these cold wintry days. Avoid illness. Feel good, well, strong. Hypo-Cod costs no more than weaker, old-fashioned remedies. It does the work days and weeks sooner. All druggists, $1.00 large bottle.—Advertisement.

Anthracite Coal More Plentiful.

During the past week all the local coal dealers received some anthracite coal which apparently is becoming more plentiful. The Centre County Junk & Fuel Co. had pea coal on Saturday. The Bellefonte Fuel & Supply Co. had several of the different sizes early in the week and the Thomas coal yard got a car of chestnut on Monday. Patrons' bins seem to be low, however, and the coal was quickly bought so that it did not last long at any of the yards. The dealers are hopeful that the situation will improve now, but could give no definite assurance of just when more coal could be expected. In the meantime, there has been considerable action in bituminous coal trade and prices have increased somewhat for this coal.

Caught Florida Farms Manager.

P. D. (P"rince") Farrington, alleged leader and manager of the "moonshine" business done with the Florida Farms, in Clinton County, as the headquarters, was placed under arrest in Williamsport last Thursday afternoon. Farrington was walking westward along Fourth St. when he was recognized by Group Head Ernst and quickly placed under arrest. It is said he took matters calmly and coolly replied he was under $1,000 bail in North Carolina. The arrest of Farrington is considered the most important step taken since confiscating the thousands of gallons of booze at the Florida Farms, which has since been stored in Williamsport.

Say More Snows Due.

Weather prognosticators say old signs indicate that there are to be 26 snows this season, the last to be the onion snow. The snow on Monday was registered as the seventh so that Centre County is still due to have nineteen more before summer comes again—perhaps.

MRS. A. A. KESSINGER KILLED.

Girls Find Woman Struck by Train and Fatally Injured.

Miss Mabel Horn, of Nordmont, Centre County, and Miss Martha Fillman, of South Williamsport, students at the Normal school at Lock Haven, on Sunday evening, in passing the Pennsy railroad tracks at the grade crossing near the school just after the passing of a milk train, discovered the lifeless body of Mrs. Albert A. Kessinger, a resident of Lock Haven. Examination revealed that the woman had been struck by the train and had sustained many injuries which proved fatal almost instantly.

Mrs. Kessinger's skull was crushed, her back broken and ribs on the right side crushed, besides other injuries. A Coroner's investigation was made.

It was learned that the woman had been visiting at the home of Mrs. Albert O. Bitner and departed about ten minutes before the discovery of her body was made. At the time of the accident there was no watchman at the crossing but a warning bell sounded to inform of the approach of the train.

Mrs. Kessinger was born in Tylersville a daughter of Jacob Ocker, and was about 55 years old. She is survived by her husband, one son, two daughters, one brother and one sister, Mrs. Jonathan Ruhl, of Tylersville. Interment was made in the cemetery at Cedar Hill on Wednesday afternoon.

Music Study Club Meeting.

The program of the Music Study club's meeting, first in 1923, to be held at the Episcopal Parish House at 8 o'clock on Friday evening, evidences the fact that the high standard of work done is not to be lowered in the new year. Scandinavian composers will be the Peer Gynt suite arranged for the piano, four hands, with a synopsis of Ibsen's play prepared by Mr. Hubbell. There will be a Grieg sonata for violin and piano, Swedish and Norwegian folks songs by a women's quartet, vocal and instrumental numbers from Finnish and Danish composers and, at the end, will be singing of American folk songs by the club members.

Extremists Might Cripple Drys

Representative Volstead, of Minnesota, father of the present prohibition enforcement act, has warned that enactment of some of the recently proposed legislation, would likely cripple the drys. Volstead said, "The prohibition laws were purposely framed to exempt purchasers of liquor so that the states and federal government could get witnesses. If the purchaser were held equally guilty, we could not force him to testify against himself and in many instances officials might that way be unable to get evidence to convict bootleggers."

Salty Sentences for Bootleggers.

Salty sentences has been a method of curing bootlegging that has been overlooked according to a statement from Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the state police. Mr. Adams said, 300 completed liquor cases in which state police worked revealed an average sentence of one and eight-tenth months in prison and an average fine of $190 63. This, he pointed out, was very light for bootleggers who would not hesitate to spend $500 a truck load for corruption in moving their goods.

Dr. Newcomb at Rockview.

Dr. J. C. Newcomb, who resigned as assistant to Dr. Campbell, physician in chargd at the Western penitentiary, returned to his former position last week, starting to work on Thursday. We did did not learn whether Dr. Newcomb will remain at Rockview permanently or may be there temporarily. Dr. and Mrs. Newcomb have been making their home with Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Mabus, on Pine St., the women being sisters.

Will Build Larger Stands.

The scheduling of football games with Navy and Georgia Tech, both to be played at State College, will make it necessary for Penn State athletic officials to arrange for the building of new stands during the coming spring and summer. It is expected that crowds of more than 20,000 people will witness each of those games next fall.

Civil War Veteran Hurt.

Campbell D. McCloskey, of Beech Creek, who makes his home with Harry Kitchen, slipped on Tuesday of last week and fell in such a manner that his right hip was painfully hurt. Mr. McCloskey is 87 years old and a veteran of the Civil war. Since the misfortune he has been unable to walk and physicians have not yet determined whether he sustained a fracture.

Overcome by Gas.

Nathan Hicks, chef at the Fallan House in Lock Haven, who recently returned from a trip to Philadelphia, told of being nearly asphyxiated from gas fumes escaping from a gas heater in the room he occupied in the hotel at which he stopped. He was in a serious condition, but was treated successfully at a Philadelphia hospital.

203,061. Fishing Licenses.

During 1922, the first year of the new fisherman's license law, there were 203,061 licenses issued, according to reports filed by county treasurers with the department of fisheries in Harrisburg.

OVER THE COUNTY

Dr. A. W. Shaab, of Belleville, and Milroy, a licensed chiropractor, has rented a portion of the C. M. Arney building in Centre Hall to open offices and engage in his profession.

At a recent meeting of the Farmers National bank of Millheim, the surplus fund was increased to $50,000. The bank has been serving its community for thirteen years and had met with remarkable success.

Mrs. Rebecca Blauser and Mrs. M. N. Miller, residents of Potters Mills, each had three ribs fractured by accidents during the holiday season. Mrs. Blauser tripped and fell over a box in her store and Mrs. Miller fell from a chair on which she was standing while washing a window.

Forester W. E. McKinney, of Spring Mills, is in the Seven mountains district, again reports that the deer are nipping the tops from the 10,000 white cedar trees in the nursery near Potters Mills. The deer seem more plentiful than ever and the cedar tops appear to be much relished by the fleetfoots.

Allen Brungart, of Rebersburg, while watering the large herd bull on his farm recently, was gored painfully by the animal which tackled him in spite of the fact that he was armed with a pitch fork and used it freely. Had it not been for timely aid, he would have been gored to death as the bull had forced him against a stone wall before driven away. The animal was killed.

A grandfather's clock was sold at the M. S. Fiedler sale in Millheim for $162.50.

Lee Kidder, a noted Rebersburg fox hunter, got three on a recent day. One was a red fox and the other two were Gray.

John Armstrong fell from the overhead while working in the barn of George McCormick, of Potters Mills, and fractured his arm when he struck the tongue of a wagon just as he neared the barn floor.

James W. Runkle, of Centre Hall, paid $4,100 for the M. S. Fiedler dwelling property in Millheim. He paid for it in cash and turned the deed over to his daughter, Mrs. Allison, wife of Dr. J. R. G. Allison, of Millheim.

Some motorists in Centre County had not received their auto license tags in time to put them on for use for the first few days in the new year but local authorities showed no inclination to arrest those who used their cars. However, state policemen began to make arrests toward the end of last week and will likely follow this course right along. Those who operate under 1922 licenses therefore take a chance of being nabbed by the state police and of facing a settlement of fine and costs of $12.50. The claim is that motorists had plenty of time to get licenses this year and some waited too long, the highway department being rushed during the last few days of the year when as many as 40,000 applications came in one day.

CROSS MARKS HISTORIC SPOT

Erected in Canada in Region Which French Explorers Traversed in the Year 1670.

On March 23, 1670, two Sulpician priests, Dollier and Galinee, during their exploration of the Great Lakes, took possession, in the name of King Louis XIV of France, of the land in the Lake Erie region. As a memorial to this historic event, the national parks branch of the Canadian Department of the Interior has erected a tall cross, on a commanding site, at the mouth of the river Lynn, near Port Dover, on Lake Erie. The cross represents the original, and will bear the arms of France and the "proces verbal" in French and English, inscribed on either side of the base, with a standard tablet on the front of the pedestal bearing a suitable inscription.

These two missionaries of the Sulpician seminary of Montreal were the first Europeans to winter on Lake

Memorial Cross Erected at Port Dover.

Erie. After wintering three-quarters of a mile inland from Lake Erie they planted a cross on the lakeside near Port Dover, with the arms of France at its foot and an inscription declaring that this unoccupied land belonged henceforth to the king of France.

Galinee's narrative of this momentous journey was presented to the Canadian public in an English version by Dr. James H. Coyne of St. Thomas in 1903, through the Ontario Historical society, and there are few contemporary narratives that indicate so dramatically the courage and endurance of these early explorers of Canada. Their place of sojourn on Black Creek, called by Galinee "the earthly paradise of Canada," has been identified by the researches of the Norfolk Historical society, and it is hoped that the site will be secured as a national memorial and a suitable monument placed thereon.

USE DOUGH IN WATCHMAKING

Minute Screws Make It Necessary for Special Method to Be Employed in Their Handling.

In the manufacture of watches flour plays a rather important part, two barrels of flour a week being not unusual in a factory turning out 2,000 to 3,000 watches weekly. Since a baker uses about three pounds of flour to five loaves of bread, it follows that for every watch the maker uses the equivalent of almost a third of a loaf. The flour is made into dough and the dough is used to handle screws, rivets and other small parts.

Each man in that part of the business has a lump of dough always at hand; and when he wants to examine a screw he jabs the piece of dough on it. Then, turning it over, he has a good chance to look at it with his watchmaker's microscopic eyeglass. Many of the screws are too minute to pick up easily with the fingers, and many more, though large enough to be picked up, would be so covered by the fingers or the forceps as to be almost hidden from sight.

Men With Big Ears Are Required.

One hundred and fifty red-haired, large-eared men are required to attend the United States Naval Militia school for wireless operators. Experts have discovered that men with red hair have an added alertness, and that large ears are an advantage in tuning the wireless instruments.

Heifer Mother of Four Calves.

A Holstein-Shorthorn heifer in Newfoundland, almost three years old, gave birth to four calves. They were much smaller than the average first born calf, but were fully developed. All were either born dead or died within a few minutes.

All in the Day's Work.

A London (Eng.) man has rather a hard head. He fell over the back of an omnibus, striking the ground violently with his head. He got up, dashed after the vehicle and took his seat quit unconcernedly.

Mare's Eyes Color of Master's.

A British Columbia man who has odd eyes, blue and a brown eye, owns a mare which presented him with a colt last fall. The colt also had a blue eye and a brown eye.

Many Auto Licenses Revoked.

During the year 1922 the names of 212 persons were placed on the blacklist of those to whom no licenses will be given and a total of 307 automobile drivers licenses were refused, the state highway department announced on Saturday. Of this total, 253 were revoked and 175 blacklisted because of intoxication.

Killed on Railroad Crossing.

Davie E. Gorman, manager of the Atlantic Refining Co. in Philipsburg, was instantly killed on Friday evening at 7 o'clock, when a train struck his automobile as he drove over a grade crossing nearby Clearfield. Gorman was well-known in Centre and adjoining counties.

Lost 1923 License.

The first motorist to lose his 1923 auto license was Atilic Mazari, of Mt. Carmel, whose license was revoked last week, soon after he had started to use his car, because he failed to appear on a charge of reckless driving. Four other licenses were revoked.

WHY
Do Men Have Instinctive Fear of the Darkness?

And while I am on the question of influences, I would like to add my testimony concerning that enigmatic sensation, the fear of the dark. Why is it, do you suppose, that two grown men, who have deliberately fled the great white ways because of the joys of the great unlighted—why should they prefer to stick around the campfire after dark? Once I slept alone in the woods for two months and at the end of that time I was no more broken from the faint distrust of something beyond the firelight than at the beginning. It was the safest place in the world, my Adirondack camp. There were no dangerous animals, no dangerous insects, no snakes, no tramps. I took supper regularly with friends on the other side of the lake, paddled over alone under glorious heavens, and suffered no feeling of the nerves. But my tent was 50 feet back from the water's edge, and those 50 feet through darkness up the familiar path verged on the unpleasant. I should have left a lantern on the landing to light me home, but that seemed childish. There was always relief I had lighted the lantern in my tent—a very slight relief, but actual. I never thought about being alone after the light was burning or minded waking up at night. I would like to know whether forest rangers, Yellowstone guards, nightwatchmen and all the citizens whose legal business is conducted after dark, have this same faint distrust of it, that is many degrees less than fright, yet a shade different from daylight ease. All our cave-men ancestors could not have been arrant cowards, lying in mortal terror at the approach of twilight. Yet anything short of that could scarcely have survived as instinct when so many other instincts have fallen by the way.—From T. Morris Longstreth's "The Adirondacks."

Chemical Warfare of Ceylon Ants.

The standing army maintained by the white ants of Ceylon practices a sort of chemical warfare against insect enemies. They squirt drops of a secretion in the faces of other ants, which is said to drive them almost crazy.

Must Need Much Milk.

Although a greater part of the inhabitants of the Red sea district of Arabia are herdsmen and shepherds, deriving a constant supply of milk from their flocks and herds, condensed milk is always in demand in their larger cities.

Careful.

"You gotta give Jones credit for judgment, anyhow." "Yes? What's he done now?" "He's just got married to a deaf and dumb woman who is an expert housekeeper, and whose mother died when she was a baby."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Why Swimming Is Healthful.

There was never a time when swimming was so widely recommended as today—not only as an amusement, but also as a health cure.

A few years ago swimming was but indifferently popular. Now, strange as it may seem, it is being used as a treatment of diseases as well as a means of increasing fitness of healthy men and women and children of all ages.

For swimming is the only exercise in the world which a man partially paralyzed can engage in. The weight of the body is supported by the water. Those limbs which have escaped damage can be used for locomotion, and even the damaged limbs obtain valuable exercise.

Very favorable reports have been made on this new therapeutic method.

How to Polish Stone.

A stone surface may be smoothed and polished quite satisfactorily by means of a good smooth, flat, hard stone and a piece of sole leather attached to a board. Emery powder, No. 90 to No. 100, which is procurable at any hardware store, is spread over the surface to be polished, a liberal supply of water is added and the flat stone is vigorously applied in a circular motion. The amount of patience and muscle exercised determines the smoothness of the stone. When sufficiently smooth the leather is applied in a similar manner and a very fine and lasting polish is secured.

Why Eddies Whirl Counter-Clockwise.

A correspondent writes to the Scientific American asking if it is true that all whirlwinds, tornadoes, cyclones, typhoons (movements of air), maelstroms, water leaving a washbowl or bathtub (movements of water), unless artificially interfered with, revolve counter-clockwise. If so, what causes this? The answer is: "The rotary motions which you describe are caused by the earth's rotation on its axis. They are counter-clockwise in the northern and clockwise in the southern hemisphere."

Why He Delayed.

She (banteringly)—Didn't you swear that if Miss Bute rejected you you would cast yourself into the deepest part of the sea?

He—Well—er—you see, I'm still gathering statistics. It's no easy matter to find out where the deepest part of the sea is.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Wonderful Chinese Wall.

The great wall of China is the earth's most impressive landmark. Winding like a gigantic serpent for thousands of miles over mountain crests and narrow gorges, it once served as a defense against the Mongol hordes from the North.

GOOD SWINE LISTED

Farm Agent Says Some Good Stock at State Show.

When the State Farm Products show is held in Harrisburg, Jan. 23 to 27, Centre County swine raisers will take part in one of the biggest and best shows ever held in the east. More than half of the counties in the state are entering their best animals, many of which were leading prize winners in numerous fall fairs and shows.

Particular significance is attached to the 1923 swine show because of the sale which is to be held in connection with the ringside competition. All of the animals entered in the exhibit will be sold to the highest bidder.

The breeders in staging this combination show and sale, bring to Pennsylvania the distinction of being the first of the eastern states to hold a state-wide swine show and auction, where blue-ribbon hogs from a large number of districts and counties are brought together, judged and sold at auction. The idea of the show sale combination was brought to the attention of the state show committee by the five state swine breed organizations, which will be in charge of the sale.

H. H. Havner, livestock extension specialist at the Penna. State College, delegated by the state show committee to pass judgment on the sows offered for entry, has already completed the inspection of most of the counties. The coming show and sale, in his estimation, will present the most outstanding display of females ever driven into an auction ring in the east. The Berkshire Breeders Association have made application for the entry of two sows, selected by Dr. Havner from the herd of W. F. Rishel, at Centre Hall.

First Water in Six Months.

Hill residents in Lock Haven during the weekend, for the first time in six months, had a continuous water supply in their homes. This improved condition was due to recent rains and melting of the snow. Early last summer when the drought began water in the reservoir at McElhattan and Castanea, stated to diminish and at times during the six months since then, the residents in the high sections of our neighbor city were entirely without water for several days, except what they carried. While the water supply in most places has about returned to normal from recent rains and melting of snow, it is not expected to remain so long unless there is a continued supply from this source. Last week while C. H. Gramley, county auditor from Rebersburg, was in Bellefonte he said that a spring on his property, which had never been known to fail, went dry during the drought and he considered this an indication that Penn's valley had never felt the effects of a dry spell as they did during last fall.

Not as Many Married.

In 1922 the number of couples getting married in Centre County was 281 as compared with 375 in 1921, which was the largest number issued in the past 10 years. Licenses issued during the months of 1922 were as follows: January, 15; February, 22; March, 16; April, 25; May, 16; June, 38, July, 21; August, 26; September, 29; October, 21; November, 27; December, 25.

Burned by Gasoline.

Levi Bathurst, 66 years old, was painfully burned about the head, shoulders and upper part of his body when a gasoline pump exploded in a station in Altoona, where he was employed. As Mr. Bathurst opened the door to enter the building occupied by the Geo. R. Reighard gasoline station, the pump was wrecked by a terrific explosion which hurled the aged salesman out of the door and onto a snow bank. The flames which shot from the pump burned him seriously. He was taken to the Mercy hospital. The cause of the explosion was not determined.

Shovel Snow from Pavements.

Shovel the snow from your pavements and keep them clean and free from ice and snow, according to the edict of Council passed at the last regular meeting or the work will be done for you and you will get a bill from Council. There has been plenty of snow to shovel this week and the borough manager has been instructed not to permit anyone to leave their pavements go uncleaned.

Teach Italian Mothers to Cook.

Italian mothers at Conshohocken are being taught to cook the American way by Miss Helen K. Regers, one of a corps of trained workers into all parts of the state. The Italian mothers are being taught at their own request on how to cook in the "American way." The pupils are said to be much interested in the lessons and the class is reported as very successful.

WESTERN CANADA for Big Wheat Crops

Canada is the world's greatest producer of wheat—second only to the United States—yet only about 12% of the tillable area has been worked. Yields of 40 bushels of wheat per acre are not uncommon. Oats have given as high as 100 bushels per acre, while 40 to 50 bushels per acre are ordinary yields; barley and rye in like proportion. Cattle and horses thrive on the native grasses which grow abundantly and corn and sunflower culture are highly successful.

Stock Raising, Dairying and Mixed Farming

secure for the industrious settler ample returns for his energy. Clearing the cost of one's farm with a single year's crop has an appeal, and has been done by hundreds of Western Canada farmers. Taxes only upon land (not on improvements). Perfect climate, attractive social conditions, good neighbors, churches, schools, telephones, excellent markets and shipping facilities make life happy as well as prosperous.

The Ways of Men.

"It is simple to distinguish between the married men and the single, though both would have you believe they are benedicts when purchasing Christmas gifts for women," said the observing shop girl. "The single man, wanting something silk and pink, tells the clerk that 'it is for my wife,' though we know different. The benedict refers to his wife as 'she' or 'her,' and though he generally spends a pretty price, is not so hard to suit as the other."—Detroit News.

Find Radium in Belgian Congo

VAST STOREHOUSE OF WEALTH

In Its Potentialities Belgian Congo Might Be Called "the Brazil of Africa"—Possibilities Barely Scratched.

Washington, D. C.—"Discovery in the Belgian Congo of large quantities of pitch-blende, a radium-bearing ore—a discovery credited with the significant result of reducing the price of radium from $120,000 to $70,000 a gram—has served to emphasize the probable great importance to the world of this country at the heart of Africa when it shall have been fully developed," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"In its potentialities, the Belgian Congo might be called 'the Brazil of Africa,'" continues the bulletin. "Like the largest of South American states, it is of vast extent, covers the heart of a continent, is situated in the tropics, and has flowing through it one of the world's greatest rivers, capable of carrying an empire's commerce.

Area One-Third That of U. S.

Perhaps the vast bulk of Belgian Congo can best be understood if one imagines the country lifted bodily and set down on the surface of the United States. Its 909,000 square miles would cover almost exactly one-third of the area, not including Alaska. If the southwestern corner of Congo were placed at San Diego, California, the southern boundary would roughly correspond with the Mexican border, and the southeastern corner would fall at the southern point of Texas. Forming a very rough square, its northeastern corner would lie at Des Moines and its northwestern corner in Yellowstone park.

"But though this comparison gives a good idea of Congo's great size, its latitude and climate are different from those of the states covered. If it were shifted to the Western Hemisphere in its true latitude it would lie astride the Amazon and would cover most of the Guianas and a large slice of northern and central Brazil.

"What is now the Belgian Congo has had an unusual history. Livingstone and Stanley put the country 'on the map.' Soon afterward, in 1882, an international committee organized a government, called it Congo Free State, and selected King Leopold of Belgium to be its ruler. Many irregularities in the administration of the region were alleged to have resulted from this personal rule, and in 1908 Leopold ceded the territory to Belgium. A year later King Albert came to the Belgian throne, reforms were pushed in the Congo and a new constructive era began.

"Measured in dollars and effort expended, much has been done to open up the Belgian Congo. Fleets of government as well as private steamers ply the several navigable stretches of the Congo and the lakes. Railroads have been built around the various regions of rapids and falls, and are being pushed into the interior, and laid to connect with British and Portuguese lines at the borders. Scores of radio stations have been set up and now fling their messages where in the past savage drum signals alone were heard. The Belgians even have a trans-Congo airplane mail service which rushes European mail across the country twice a month on the arrival of steamers at the Atlantic port of Boma, at the mouth of the Congo.

Contains Gorilla-Haunted Eden.

"But with all this activity, the surface of the Belgian Congo's possibilities has barely been scratched. Enormous tropical jungles like those of the Amazon valley await proper forestry. In the southeast are extensive rolling prairies teeming with game, that, with the solution of the tsetse-fly problem, would make excellent cattle ranges. And chance discoveries have shown that the mineral stores of the country are seemingly unlimited. Copper, tin, gold, and diamonds to the value of many millions of dollars have been extracted. Some coal and iron is mined and it is believed that much more exists. Now, when science is finding epoch-making uses for radio-active substances, the opening up of what is believed to be the world's richest radium ores caps Congo's mineral climax.

"Congo is not entirely a torrid land. In the extreme east around Lake Kivu—itself 6,000 feet above the sea—rise mountains as high as Pike's Peak. In this upland region the weather is delightful and the slopes and valleys are described by travelers as among the world's beauty spots. Nearby the night sky is lighted by the boiling cauldron of Africa's Kilauea. This Eden is the home of large numbers of man's closest non-human relatives, gorillas. The Belgian government is considering the setting aside of a large area in this region as a gorilla refuge where the creatures can be preserved from the extinction which threatens them, and where scientists may study them in their natural haunts. Naturalists have found that unless cornered these gorillas are far from ferocious, and it is predicted that if protected they will become entirely tamed."

Calf Fails to Carry Tail Light So Owner Is Sued

Fresno, Cal.—Because Asa W. Allen failed to hang a tail light on a calf, Anthony Pohl has asked Justice of the Peace Asa W. Smith to award him $229.12 damages for injuries sustained to his automobile.

His automobile was damaged, says Pohl's complaint, when it collided with one "young black cow or heifer at night, wrongfully, carelessly and negligently allowed to stray and roam upon the road unaccompanied by any person and without any lantern or light or anything to warn the public of its presence."

SENT BACK TO SMYRNA

Petros Rahlis, seventeen, lived in Smyrna until the Turks captured it. He saw the killing by the Turks of three younger brothers; he saw his sister carried off by the Turkish soldiers; his mother and father were torn from him and he believes killed later, and as his captors were about to thrust him into a bag to be drowned he escaped and reached a quay under the protection of sailors from an American torpedo boat destroyer. He managed to smuggle himself on board the steamship Asia. On arrival at New York he was turned over to the immigration authorities and ordered deported. This means back to Smyrna. He has not a friend in the United States, and possibly none in the world.

Discover Two New Minerals

5-POUND TOPAZ ONE TROPHY

Scientists Tell of Mountains of Iron Ore of Finest Quality for Steel Manufacture—Vast Gem Fields Visited.

Chicago.—A topaz weighing five pounds, remarkable not only for its size but for its clearness, is among the specimens brought back to Chicago by Dr. Oliver C. Farrington, curator of the department of geology of Field museum, who has just returned from an expedition to Brazil.

The expedition traveled 2,000 miles through the diamond, gold and precious stone fields of the South American republic, covering more than 300 miles through the mountains of the State of Minas Geraes on muleback.

The specimens obtained include gold, diamonds aquamarines, beryls, emeralds and topazes, besides a number of minerals of the rare earths. Doctor Farrington believes he has found one or two minerals hitherto unknown to science.

The five-pound topaz is one of a large number of enormous semi-precious stones obtained by the scientists, but is small compared to a 26-pound topaz which they saw at one of the mines. The giant stone was valued at about $75 a pound. Cut up and polished a first-grade topaz is worth from $5 to $10 a carat.

Visit Diamond Mines.

Diamond mines were visited in the region of Diamantina, 500 miles north of Rio Janeiro, in the center of a vast diamond bearing area. The stones can be mined only in the neighborhood of water for washing the coarse earth away. The diamonds are found in beds totally different from those in South Africa, the matrix being a quartzite composed of sands washed from older lands.

The semi-precious stones in the State of Minas Geraes are found in coarse granites or pegmatites so decomposed that the gems can be mined with a shovel.

The expedition visited Morro Velho gold mine, the deepest mining shaft on earth. Its lowest level is 7,000 feet below the surface. At this great depth the temperature of the rock is 117 degrees Fahrenheit, making it necessary to maintain an elaborate refrigeration plant on the surface to force cold air down to the miners.

The deeper the shaft goes, however, the richer the ore found, so the additional cost of mining is more than offset by the returns.

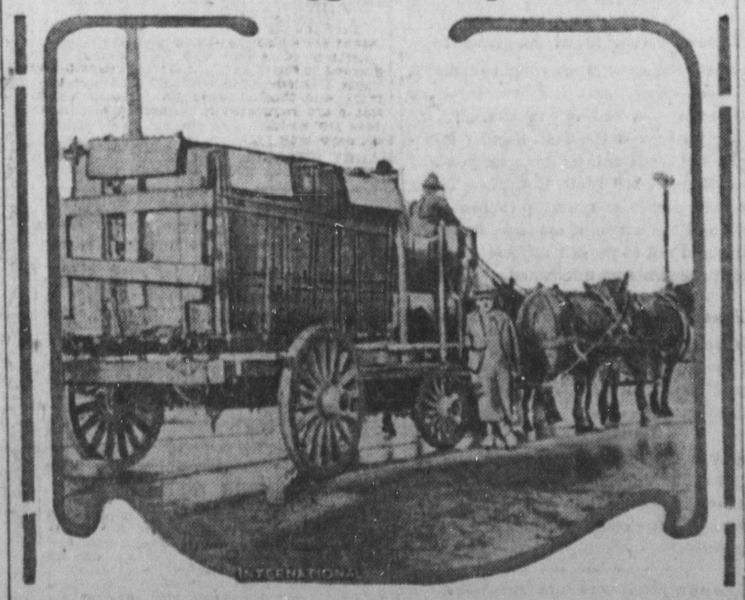
Iron Ore Common.

Iron ore of the finest quality for steel manufacture is so common in this district, Doctor Farrington said, that his party rode for day after day over mountains, valleys and plains of solid iron deposits. Manganese, aluminum and other valuable ores were also found in abundance.

The Brazilians of the interior were almost uniformly friendly and willing to give every assistance to the scientists, Doctor Farrington reported, except in one town, where he was nearly mobbed when a rumor spread that he intended to buy a gold mine which was to be sold at auction. The natives objected to a foreigner obtaining the mine and spent most of the night in a demonstration in front of the house where he was staying, shooting, exploding dynamite cartridges, singing and shouting derisively.

American automobiles, typewriters, sewing machines and other mechanical appliances were very common in the interior, and American movies enjoy almost a monopoly, he said. Even the remote villages have their movie theaters, where the American screen favorites are shown. Wild West films were the most popular.

Utah Has Biggest Lump of Coal



What is believed to be the largest lump of coal ever mined has been placed on permanent exhibition in the basement of the Utah state capitol on request of the secretary of state. It was mined at the King mine of the Western Fuel company at Mohrland, Utah, weighs 22,000 pounds and is five feet by ten feet in dimensions. It cost about $2,000 to mine and ship to the capital. The photograph shows the five horses and truck which were required to haul it from the railroad station to the capitol.

Time Saved by System.

In a report made to the house of representatives by the committee on coinage, weights and measures, which favored the adoption of the metric system by the government of the United States, it was pointed out that, according to estimates made by the bureau of education and others, two-thirds of a year would be saved by the adoption of the metric arithmetic. It is also averred, as a matter of evidence, that the metric system and its application to the solution of problems may be learned in one-tenth of the time required for gaining equal facility in the use of the English system of weights and measures.

Famous Singer Helps Opera Ballet in Rehearsal

Chaliapin, perhaps the world's greatest basso, is not content to merely sing, but is interested in all phases of the opera and understands more than most singers do about the component parts. He is especially interested in the ballet, for he thinks that their manner of entry and performance has much to do with the effect and success of the opera. The other day he attended rehearsals of the ballet being trained by Adolph Bolm, the director of the Chicago Opera company's ballet, and took an active part in suggestions for its improvement. The photograph shows the principal members of the ballet, with Director Bolm in center, rehearsing for Chaliapin (in rear).

Can't Get His Wages in His Pocket

Prior to the great depreciation of the mark in Germany, it was possible for a workman to get his weekly wages in his pockets. Now that there is little or no silver in circulation and labor is being paid in paper it requires more room than ordinary pockets. The photograph shows a German baker receiving his weekly wage which he is placing in a cigar box.

HER PACE WAS TOO FAST

It used to be a great stunt for a movie actress to have some friendly judge sentence her to jail for ten days, and, after she had spent ten minutes in jail and been photographed, to release her. SERGEANT USES HIS BRAINS

Has Made Discovery That Weather Can Be Utilized as an Aid in Recruiting.

"Studying weather forecasts, that's how I land 'em. Thus one of the regular army's most proficient recruiters explains the success which has made him one of the "aces" of Uncle Sam's recruiting forces.

When winter blasts blow around his "Uncle Sam Wants You" sign, the sergeant hangs out alluring pictures of a field artillery column at rest on the side of a Hawaiian island road shaded with palm trees. When the city sizzles in the summer he extracts from his supply of posters a persuading "Spend Your Summer in Cool Alaska With the Infantry" sign.

"And you ought to see 'em flock in," gloats the sergeant. "Give me a week of rain and I'll land 'em for my post on the Mexican border, 50 miles away from a river. Come around and see me this winter. I can fill a division for the Philippines any day there's snow on the ground. But Alaska or the Canadian border, not a chance!"

Nothing to Eat.

My most embarrassing moment came when I had dinner with a friend who put out a most beautifully served and appointed meal, with gorgeous service and artistic settings, but with little food. I was duly impressed with the beauty of the meal, but equally depressed by the lack of food, and with both these feelings in mind I blurted out to the hostess on leaving: "You must come and dine with us soon. I can't promise you a more artistic dinner than yours was, my dear, but you may be sure it will be more substantial."—Chicago Tribune.

FEMALE VICTIMS OF PLAGUE

Figures Show That Tuberculosis Is Spreading, Chiefly Among Women Active in Industrial World.

The death rate from tuberculosis among women is on the increase. In spite of the increase in active cases among women the death rate for males is still higher than that for females by almost one-third. "The sudden influx of women into industry during the war may, in a measure, be responsible for this increase," says a statement from the National Tuberculosis association. "This does not mean that there is any real basis for the assertion that women are not as well fitted for industrial work as men are. It is a fact, however, that many women who work in industry also look after their household duties and bring up large families of children. Consequently, insufficient rest, improperly cooked food and lack of fresh air so undermine the constitution that they readily become victims of the tubercle bacillus."

No Comeback.

A local youth who expressed a desire for adventure was asked:

"Why don't you join Captain X's expedition? He's looking for recruits for his revolutionary operations in Guatemala."

"I haven't got the price of a passage to Guatemala."

"The captain furnishes you passage and equipment free."

"Then I'm on. But how about his furnishing my passage back?"

"Don't worry about that. One doesn't come back."—Charleston News and Courier.

Robert T. Lincoln Probably Only Man in America to Witness Chain of Tragedies.

Robert T. Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, and now in his eightieth year, was in the army and stationed in Virginia when he received an order to report at Washington. He got into the theater just in time to see his father receive his fatal wound.

Robert T. Lincoln was secretary of war under Garfield. He was asked by the President to meet him at the station, and he reached there just as Garfield was assassinated. Mr. Lincoln received an invitation to attend the formal opening of the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo, and accompanied by his family got there just in time to see President McKinley shot by Czolgosz.

Mr. Lincoln related this eerie experience recently to a friend, says Forbes' Magazine, and, so far as he knows, says the writer, it had never before been published.
